

ANANDA

SPA EXPERIENCES

Ānanda
(Sanskrit: आनन्द)
literally means bliss or happiness.

In yoga philosophy it is said that God is sat-chit-ananda. Paramhansa Yogananda adds that ananda is different from the temporary happiness that comes from sense pleasures such as eating, listening to music, and seeing beautiful things. It is also not a monotonous joy that is always the same. Ananda refers to a joy that “changes and dances itself in many ways to enthrall your mind and keep your attention occupied and interested forever.”

According to Paramhansa Yogananda, ananda can only be found through regular, deep meditation. This joy lives within and cannot be found through anything outside oneself. When one has divine joy, the joy remains despite any difficult outward circumstances.

SPA ETIQUETTE

It's always good to know the basics of etiquette of the place you go to. We have formed the basics of SPA etiquette so that you feel comfortable with us. You will feel simpler if you know the common things to do when you visit the spa salon.

Turn off your cell phones. It's very hard to relax when you have to answer calls, emails, or SMS. This also applies for pedicures. If you do not want time to last - take a book or magazine.

Come on time. The exact arrival time depends on which procedure you choose, how well you know about it and the effect you expect from the procedure. It's always better to go to the spa salon 10 minutes before. You should not delay the procedure - we recommend arriving at least a few minutes before.

Explain your wishes. Do not hesitate and explain what exactly you would like to get during the procedure when registering.

Tell us about your ailments: allergies, hypersensitivity, high blood pressure, diabetes, heart problems (or other physical illnesses) when you book your treatment.

Forget about everyday problems. Do not waste your time spitting on them. No matter what the problem is - leave them outside the spa door and let yourself enjoy the treatment provided.

Do not come to the procedure sweaty. Wash in the shower, because it will be more pleasant not only for you, but also for the therapist.

Do not speak loudly. No matter where you are in the spa, do not speak loud and do not use your mobile phone as it interferes to relax with others and yourself.

Do not expect the miracle from one procedure. One massage salon will not suffice to eliminate all your ailments and muscle tension. You will need to visit several times to feel the improvement.

Do not treat the spa staff with disrespect. Do not play the king or queen in any spa salon, as this will not make your life more beautiful.

Do not come to spa after eating too much food and drinking alcohol. You feel uncomfortable and agitated. After the procedure it is recommended to drink plenty of pure water and do not rush to eat.
